WELCOME TO BEIJING NORMAL UNIVERSITY

Founded in 1902, Beijing Normal University (BNU) has a distinguished history of scholarship, research and training in education. The university developed from the Faculty of Education of Capital Metropolitan University, which initiated the first modern teacher training program in China. Since its foundation, BNU has led change and innovation in Chinese education and continues to do so as it moves into the new age of rapid development. BNU is a leader not only in Chinese education but also on the world stage. BNU lays great emphasis on exchange and cooperation with educational institutions nationally and internationally and is building a first-class reputation for scholarship, research and training.

The Institute of International and Comparative Education at BNU, founded in 1961, is the oldest and most influential institute for the study of comparative education in China, and is the only nationally recognized centre for comparative education. The institute is staffed by senior faculty members and has a strong profile of national and international research. It has a proven track record of effectiveness in postgraduate training of over 30 years. Aiming to train high-level education professionals and carry out international and comparative education research, the Institute of International and Comparative Education creates a stimulating and challenging environment which welcomes ambitious students in the field of comparative education. This program enjoys the support of the Chinese Government and strives to contribute to educational management, leadership, and policy worldwide.

INTRODUCTION TO THE PROGRAM

The International PhD Program in Educational Leadership and Policy (Comparative Education) for International Students is a unique program offered by the Institute of International and Comparative Education at Beijing Normal University with support from the Institute of International Education at Stockholm University. This program, with generous financial support from the Chinese Government, is designed to train talented individuals who can contribute to globalization and internationalization in the fields of educational management, leadership and policy worldwide, and enhance educational and cultural exchange between China and other countries.

The program at BNU is focused on a series of contemporary issues of educational management, leadership and policy that are relevant to all countries, especially developing nations, as well as international organization. Based on the rich international resources of the Institute of International and Comparative Education at Beijing Normal University and the Institute of International Education at Stockholm University, it has a strong team of professors and faculty members, and aims to become a high quality and world-class international program.

We sincerely welcome students from countries across the world to apply for this international program, co-creating multiple and proactive cultural atmosphere, and contributing our modest means to promote development of educational management, leadership, and policy worldwide.

THE AIM OF THE PROGRAM

The PhD Program in Educational Leadership and Policy (Comparative Education) for International Students aims to train talented individuals from all over the world so that they will develop a deep understanding of educational theories and acquire a wide knowledge of fundamental policy trends in educational reform and development worldwide. The program aims to meet the demands of the international labor market by training individuals who have independent educational research capabilities, highly developed international communication and educational management and leadership skills, and will go on to work in international organizations, governmental authorities, NGOs, research institutions, higher education institutions, and related areas.

The objectives of the PhD Program in Educational Leadership and Policy (Comparative Education) for International Students include:

Educational Knowledge: comprehensive and deep understanding of major trends in educational theories and the thoughts of contemporary world, and main features and trends in educational leadership and policy in various nations and regions, and possession of in-depth knowledge in the field of comparative education.

Educational Abilities: to possess international knowledge, to conduct comparative analysis of educational policies in countries across the world and the international organizations through scientific approaches, to possess professional capabilities in participating in the formulation of national and international education policy, and to exhibit leadership in international activities on academic exchanges and dialogues.

Educational Attitudes: developing an approach to analyzing international experience consciously and critically, maintaining an open mind to rich and diverse educational practices worldwide and respecting the unique characteristics of educational practices in various countries and regions.

DURATION, PROGRAM CURRICULUM AND REQUIREMENTS

Duration

The PhD Program in Educational Leadership and Policy (Comparative Education) for International Students is a 3-year program, and students should complete their courses within 3 years. Graduation cannot be postponed or deferred and scholarships cannot be extended or increased. Suspension of study (and of the scholarship) will be offered according to relevant regulations only if a candidate has exceptional circumstances which prevent continuation of study, such as health problems. The suspension shall not be longer than 1 year.

Program Curriculum

No.	Curriculum	Type	Credits
1	Education Systems, Policy and Management in China	Core Course	2
2	Theories and Methodology of Comparative Education		3
3	Major Issues of Education Reform: International Perspective		3
4	Educational Policy Analysis		3

8	Educational Management and Leadership		3
9	Educational Planning: Theory and Practice		3
10	Education and National Development		2

Program Requirements

Credits: At least 11 core course credits are required (1 credit equals 18 class hours), including 1 general compulsory course and 3 professional compulsory courses. In addition, at least 8 credits from the elective courses are required. If the relevant core courses have been studied previously at the master level, these credits can be exempted upon application and attainment of written approval. If the relevant elective courses have been studied previously at the master level, students are expected to take other courses from other programs or departments in order to fulfill the credit requirement.

Mid-Course Examination: PhD degree candidates must first pass the mid-course examination by the end of the third semester, and may then proceed to the PhD dissertation-writing period. Candidates should complete the courses and credits required and submit a dissertation proposal to be examined and approved by their supervisors. An examining group is responsible for the examination of the dissertation proposals. Those who fail to pass the examination will have the opportunity to apply for a second-round examination if they have the support of the examining group and their supervisors. If the proposal fails to pass the second-round examination, the candidate will not be permitted to continue the program.

PhD Dissertation: The candidate should select a theme for dissertation study under the direction of his/her supervisor. We encourage candidates to pursue topics relevant to their own professional backgrounds and interests. A final version of the PhD dissertation should be submitted for assessment and dissertation defense in March of the sixth semester. The final PhD dissertation should be written in English and the length of the dissertation should be 160-200 pages (Times New Roman 12 point font and 1.5 line spacing). A final dissertation defense is required.

Degree Award: Candidates who complete their studies within the set time period by completing the required learning and research tasks, passing the required examinations and the dissertation (including defense) shall be allowed to graduate. The University's Degree Evaluation Committee will finally decide whether to bestow degrees upon the students.
